Unpleasant But Inescapable Crisis: Income Tax Time

If you've noticed that the local comment has been missing from this column for the last several days I should explain that this constitutes one of the differences between a big city and a small city daily.

The big city paper is highly departmentalized, with a battery of ivory-tower thinkers who have nothing to do but write their daily stunts—far removed from the struggle in the business office and the shop.

But the small city editor finds himself invariably right in the middle of business and production affairs. The first 100 days of the new year are the worst. There is a blizzard of paper work—closing out the old year's reports, sitting in with the Audit Bureau of Circulations Chicago auditor as he prepares his report on the previous year, doing the same with our own CPA auditor as he makes his annual visit, then getting the federal and state tax returns back from him by mail, and re-mailing them with checks attached to the federal and state collectors, and finally, preparing the editor's personal tax returns.

That last item is the specific reason there was no local comment in this column for several days. I spent Saturday and Sunday preparing personal tax schedules, went to Little Rock Sunday evening and placed them with our company CPA, who pronounced them O.K. That was April 3, ending the 1972 paper-work turmoil just short of the proverbial 100 days.

I'll get the auditor's prepared tax returns and file them with the necessary checks probably by the week-end. It's always a relief to get this job behind one—for until you've discharged the income tax obligation you never know whether you've got a dime left to go fishing on.

The record-keeping chores I have described engulf the whole organization. The Star used to have but one bookkeeper and she split her time 50-50 between the books and handling Society news. But not now. How times have changed—

Now we have two bookkeepers, both full-time; and the general bookkeeper spends half her hours keeping up with government reports.

The common annoyance for bookkeepers and taxpaying citizens in general is to greet the new year and find some skunk in Washington or Little Rock has changed the reporting form. Life is bearable when all you have to do is to follow the schedule of last year from the copy in your files. But to have to refigure on a brand new report form—that is unbearable.

Most businessmen justifiably suspect that the reason government forms are revised every year or two is not for any useful purpose but to provide an extra "work load" and therefore justify the hiring of additional government clerks.

It's an old government trick. The reason I recognize it is that I made my own personal tax returns for 40 years, until the various schedules got so tedious I turned to our CPA. But I know the bookkeeping problem—and taxpaying time is always an opportune moment to let the politicians know that I know.

2 Convicted of Robbery

In Hempstead Circuit Court James L. Guffey and Norman Taylor Black were found guilty by a jury of armed robbery and kidnapping and each was given sentences of 21 years for robbery and 15 years for kidnapping to run consecutively.

They were charged in connection of robbing and kidnapping Henry Ray Caudle, attendant at the Highway 4-130 Conoco Station earlier this year. They were apprehended at Emmet and Caudle was not harmed.

The case of the State of Arkansas vs Clarence Palmer, charged with robbery was dismissed. Palmer was charged with the alleged robbery of Henry Chappel of $1.80 cents.

Wage-Price Critics to Sample Public

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional critics who say the Nixon administration has mishandled wage-price controls are planning a cross-country series of hearings to provide a forum for complaints.

While there has been no official announcement, it was learned that the House Banking Committee is gearing up for public hearings that would begin in Washington, then move to various cities throughout the country.

The groundwork was laid last month when Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., wrote President Nixon that the control program was not being carried out in accordance with congressional intentions and that, unless changes were made, the committee was prepared to reopen hearings and possibly recommend amendments to the Economic Stabilization Act which it steered to passage at Nixon's request in 1970.

Since Patman wrote the letter, controversy over the economic-control program has been sharpened by the resignation of four of the five labor members of the Pay Board and by an abrupt rise in food prices.

One set of hearings on wage and price control, on a somewhat lower key, is already assured.

The Senate-House Economic Committee has announced it will call witnesses beginning April 18 for an overview of the control program. Among those testifying will be members of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, the heads of the Pay Board and Price Commission, and AFL-CIO President George Meany, who led the labor walkout.

The joint committee's jurisdiction is limited to studies and recommendations. It cannot, like the Banking and other legislative committees, report bills for action.

If current plans are carried out, the Banking Committee's hearings probably would begin in May and extend over several weeks, a timetable that would keep the economic issue simmering until the political-convention season opens in July.

Davis Trial Resumes

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — After a day's recess, the Angela Davis trial resumes today with testimony from a man who was gunned down and paralyzed during a shootout at the Marin County Civic Center.

No trial session was held Tuesday to allow a juror to attend her father's funeral.

Prosecutor Albert Harris Jr. said his first two witnesses would be Marin County Sheriff's Inspector Kenneth O. Irving and Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas.

Thomas was one of five persons taken hostage by three black convicts and an accomplice at the civic center. In the shooting that followed he was hit in the spine and permanently paralyzed from the waist down.

Irving was in the courtroom hallway when the kidnappers led Thomas, three women jurors and Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley to an elevator at gunpoint.

Miss Davis, 28, a Communist and former UCLA philosophy instructor, is accused of furnishing four guns and helping plot the abortive Aug. 7, 1970 escape attempt.

Hanoi Push Into South Vietnam Intensified

QUANG TRI, Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnamese MIG jet fighters have flown south of the demilitarized zone for the first time in the war, a South Vietnamese general said today.

Brig. Gen. Vu Van Giai, commander of South Vietnamese forces defending Quang Tri Province against the North Vietnamese, said two MIG19s had crossed the DMZ Tuesday and flown over South Vietnamese front line positions at Dong Ha.

There was no immediate word on whether the enemy planes were intercepted by allied aircraft.

They did not drop any bombs or engage in any other hostile actions, Giai said.

There have been other reports in recent days, none of them confirmed by official sources, that North Vietnamese MIGs were sighted over the western end of the demilitarized zone and farther south in the Laos panhandle than ever before seen.

SAIGON (AP) — The North Vietnamese broadened their seven-day offensive below the demilitarized zone today and opened a new front 75 miles north of Saigon with tank, infantry and artillery assaults.

The enemy also intensified attacks in the central highlands, where North Vietnamese tanks were reported to have pushed to within four miles of a government fire base. All these operations made up what amounts to a three-front drive.

Field reports said the attacks north of Saigon were directed at towns and bases near the Cambodian border.

"This is the decisive battle," President Nguyen Van Thieu declared in a nationwide television and radio address. "I call on the army to defend our country. I call on the people to do your best to support the battle front."

While the Saigon government's northern defense line held along the Cua Viet-Dong Ha River 10 miles below the DMZ, Quang Tri, the provincial capital nine miles to the south, was threatened by fighting on the southeast, south, southwest and northwest.

McGovern Scores in Wisconsin, Wallace Beats Out Humphrey

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern has established himself as a major contender for the Democratic presidential nomination by scoring a smashing victory in a Wisconsin primary that knocked New York Mayor John V. Lindsay out of the race for the White House.

The South Dakota senator, making the breakthrough he had forecast here, ran strongly in both urban, blue-collar areas and rural, farm regions Tuesday to capture seven of Wisconsin's nine congressional districts.

He won 54 of the state's 67 votes at the Democratic national convention, increasing his total to 94.5 of the 3,016 convention votes, one behind Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine.

"It clearly establishes me as a major contender in the public mind," McGovern told a reporter who asked what he thought the results meant. "I really think we received a boost tonight that could take us all the way."

Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, in another strong showing after his Florida primary victory three weeks ago, rode late rural returns into second place by a narrow margin over Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota.

Humphrey led in two districts with 13 convention votes. President Nixon easily won the state's 28 GOP convention delegates in the Republican primary.

In the Democratic balloting, returns from 98 per cent of Wisconsin's 3,294 precincts gave McGovern 30 per cent,

Wallace 22 per cent and Humphrey 21 per cent. The other nine Democrats trailed far behind.

McGovern 324,843-30 per cent
Wallace 241,475-22 per cent
Humphrey 228,157-21 per cent
Muskie 113,233-10 per cent
Jackson 88,203-8 per cent
Lindsay 74,062-7 per cent
McCarthy 15,316-1 per cent
Chisholm 8,905-1 per cent
Yorty 2,294-0 per cent
Mink 1,261-0 per cent
Hartke 940-0 per cent
Mills 933-0 per cent
None above 1,912-0 per cent
Nixon 266,551-97 per cent
McCloskey 3,461-1 per cent
Ashbrook 2,642-1 per cent
None Above 1,558-1 per cent

Muskie, once the overwhelming Democratic frontrunner, suffered another smashing setback with a fourth-place finish and only 10 per cent of the vote. This could cripple his ability to raise funds for crucial

Co-op Told to File Rates

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Southwest Arkansas Electric Cooperative Corp. was ordered by the state Public Service Commission Tuesday to file rates designed to increase annual operating revenues by $211,500.

SAMEC had asked the PSC for approval of rates that would increase revenues by $235,000, but the commission said it appeared those rates would produce more revenues than needed to meet minimum financial criteria.

primaries ahead in Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Ohio.

He vowed to press on and said those states are "more favorable ground."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington finished fifth in Wisconsin after a third-place finish in Florida and conceded, "I'd like to have done better." An aide denied rumors he would quit the race, saying Jackson plans a major effort in Ohio.

Lindsay, however, looked at returns placing him sixth after his poor fifth in Florida and said, "I don't think I can honestly deny them. Hence, I am withdrawing as a candidate."

The total number of votes in the Democratic primary was four times that in the GOP contest, indicating many Republicans took advantage of the state law allowing voters to cast ballots in either primary. McGovern and Wallace appeared to be major beneficiaries of the GOP crossover.

Accused of Busing for Sake of It

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A University of Miami desegregation expert who drew the NAACP's plan for busing 61,500 Memphis school pupils was accused in U.S. District Court here Tuesday of "busing for the sake of busing."

The charge was leveled by school board lawyer Jack Petree, who maintained that Dr. Gordon Foster's busing-desegregation plan included statistical errors that could result in "educational chaos."

Judge Offers to Quit Case

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Judge G. Thomas Eisele of U.S. District Court here has offered to disqualify himself in the case concerning the Gillham Dam project.

A spokesman in the judge's office said Eisele would disqualify himself unless he receives a written request by noon Thursday from all parties asking him to remain on the case.

Eisele said he took the action because his children own stock through a trust fund in the Weyerhaeuser Corp., which owns land below the site of the dam.

Environmentalists have filed suit seeking to halt construction of the dam on the scenic Cossatot River, contending that the dam would destroy the last free-flowing stream in the Ouachita Mountains.

A spokesman in the office of Richard S. Arnold of Texarkana, attorney for the plaintiffs, said a letter had been sent to Eisele telling him the plaintiffs had no objection to his continuing with the case.

Maxine Smith, a leader of the Memphis NAACP, was slated to testify in the hearing today.

Foster testified that it might be possible for the entire plan to be implemented by September, and he was certain the elementary levels could be in effect by then. The junior and senior high school phases might take until the second semester, he said.

Petree questioned Foster time and again on the statistics contained in the busing plan. Foster admitted there could be some errors, but insisted they would not throw the plan off by more than 10 per cent.

But Petree pointed to what he called "GROSS ERRORS." One dealt with Foster's proposed enrollment of 476 pupils at Gragg Junior High School, under the NAACP plan.

"Actually, on the basis of the number of students who live in the feeder areas, there would be only 375 students at Gragg Junior High next year," Petree told Foster. Petree said it was a 21 per cent mistake.

The school board has filed two busing plans with Judge Robert McRae and contends they are sufficient enough to bring about further racial mixing in the city school system.

The most stringent board plan would provide for busing of about 36,000 of the city's 147,000 pupils to create a 30 per cent racial minority in each school.

U.S. Sending More Planes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is sending additional B52 bombers to help offset Hanoi's invasion of South Vietnam, but it remains uncertain if the administration has decided on a resumption of widespread air attacks in the North.

The some 20 new Stratofortresses, sources indicate, augment the 80-plus B52s already operating over Indochina and will be used to bomb troop concentrations and other targets in South Vietnam, along the demilitarized zone and in Laos and Cambodia.

The Pentagon refused comment on the report of the beefed-up American air power for Southeast Asia. "We don't discuss operational matters concerning B52s," said spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim.

"We are prepared to take whatever steps are necessary to assure that Gen. Abrams (Creighton W. Abrams, the U.S. commander in Vietnam) is able to protect the remaining Americans in the war zone."

Apart from letting the situation ride as it is with U.S. air power limited to the DMZ and the South, Nixon appears to have only one realistic option and that is new and extensive bombing of North Vietnam.

The 7,000 U.S. combat troops are too few to make much of a difference if the North Vietnamese attack continues in force.

In addition, they are committed to protecting key American air bases and other facilities, and U.S. officials would be extremely reluctant to reduce that shield.

The domestic political climate is acknowledged by government officials as practically ruling out sending American forces back into Vietnam, although they refuse to publicly deny such a possibility.

Earlier this week, after the size of the North Vietnamese onslaught became evident, the United States ordered two more aircraft carriers to join two already off the Vietnamese coast.

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said tonight that the North Vietnamese invasion across the demilitarized zone is an attempt to capture South Vietnam's two northern provinces and use them to bargain for a settlement ending the war.

Thieu called the fighting below the DMZ "the final battle to decide the survival of the people" and said the North Vietnamese have suffered heavy casualties. But he warned that if the tide of battle goes too severely against them,

Thieu said defeat would mean much more to South Vietnam than the loss of the two provinces, Quang Tri and Thua Thien, and "we cannot let the Communists force us to accept any unfavorable solution."

"I am sure they will fail," he declared.

Thieu Says Aim to Capture Provinces

Hanoi might use its air force in attacks against the South. "I have asked the United States to support us by air and other logistical facilities," he said in a 10-minute radio and television address. "I have ordered the army, at any cost, not to let the two provinces fall into the hands of the Communists."

Nothing startling developed on the local scene as the filing deadline for candidates closed Tuesday.

Failing to draw opponents were Senator Olen Hendrix of Prescott; Hempstead treasurer Harry Hawthorne, Circuit Clerk Jim Cole, Coroner J. T. Honeycutt, and Sheriff Henry Sinyard.

For representative Larry S. Patterson failed to draw a democratic foe but will be opposed by a republican, Mrs. Jerry Pruden of Hope.

Two Texarkana men, Norman M. Smith and Damon Young filed for prosecuting attorney.

Lille Easterling and Jerry H. Garrett are in the tax assessor's race and Mrs. Dee Turnage McMurreugh will oppose incumbent Mrs. Pat House in the race for county clerk.

County Judge Incumbent Finis Odom drew two foes in Perry H. Henley, local businessman, and Carter Sutton who has served as tax assessor for many years.

Centennial Planning Meet Slated May 2

The Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, the sponsoring organization for the Hope Centennial Observance will launch the centennial planning Tuesday, May 2, 7:00 p.m. in the Hope City Hall.

At this meeting the board of directors will pass control and supervision to the centennial committee that will be formed at that time. At the March meeting the board voted to name Haskell Jones, General Manager of Radio Station KXAR, as General Chairman. Mr. Jones will preside at the centennial meeting. Kelly Bryant, Arkansas Secretary of State will come to help the City of Hope launch its planning program. Mr. Bryant and his staff have done extensive research into the formation and the early history of Hope, and will provide this much needed information for the planning committee.

General Chairman, Haskell Jones has indicated he would like a centennial year observance extending from September 1, 1974, to August 31, 1975. The plan is to have one event each month such as a sporting event, an entertainment program, a religious observance or a specially prepared meal. A.I.C. schools in the southwest part of state, along with Texarkana Junior College, will be asked to play athletic events in Hope as well as provide entertainment for the centennial year. Final plans will depend however, on what the committees formed decide upon.

This will be a town hall meeting with the meeting open to all. At least one hundred persons are needed to serve on the following committees: historical, program, property, advertising and publicity, sports, special events, merchants, agricultural, industrial, religious, and finance. Others may be added. Come to the meeting with suggestions, ideas and your choice of committee you will serve on. That date again, May 2, 7:00 p.m., Hope City Hall.

Registration for First Year Students

James H. Jones, Superintendent of Schools, announced today that all parents or guardians who have children who will be six years of age on or before October 1, 1972 are asked to register your child at the elementary school nearest your residence beginning Tuesday, April 11, 1972 and ending Friday, April 14, 1972.

Information cards will be completed and other information will be given parents, concerning birth certificates, immunizations, etc.

No child will be admitted to school in the fall unless these requirements of Arkansas law have been met. A child must be admitted during the first ten days of the 1972-73 school term or wait until the following year.

This registration is necessary for all pupils entering first grade in order that the school staff can plan effectively for the 1972-73 school year.

Mild and Springlike

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mild spring-like weather was to replace the chilly temperatures of the past few days in Arkansas.

The National Weather Service said warmer temperatures would return to the state as a high pressure center continues its movement to the east creating a southerly flow of winds into Arkansas.

The Weather Service said that along with rising temperatures some partly cloudy conditions would develop. No precipitation was in sight, however, mainly because of the lack of moisture in the state.

The next frontal system expected to cross Arkansas is a Pacific cold front that was nearing the West Coast this morning. The front should be close enough to supply unstable air needed for showers by Friday or Saturday.

Cool temperatures in the state Tuesday ranged from 56 at Jonesboro to 63 at Texarkana and Fayetteville.

Temperatures around the state this morning ranged from the mid 30s to low 40s with the coolest temperatures reported in the central portion of the state.

Some overnight lows included 35 at Fayetteville, 40 at Harrison, 38 at Jonesboro, 40 at Pine Bluff, 41 at Texarkana, 37 at El Dorado, 38 at Memphis, 35 at Little Rock and 35 at Fort Smith.

No precipitation was reported during the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. today.

Singers Entertain Kiwanis Club

The Hope High School Madrigal Singers under the direction of Mrs. Paul Morgan presented Tuesday's Kiwanis Club Program. Kiwanian Dale Franks arranged for the program and introduced Mrs. Morgan and the Madrigals.

The singing group was composed of Susan Reardon, Lisa Hand, Debra Hart, Debbie Cole, Ellen Howell, Janet Gilbey, Dianne Rowe, Charlotte Hickles and Lorraine White. They were accompanied by Glenda Buckley, assisted by Susan Buckley.

The beautifully presented program was quite varied, consisting of contemporary music, genuine madrigals sung a capella, and some more difficult music they will be required to sing in competition at the State Festival in Hot Springs on Friday, April 7th. HHS Madrigals qualified for this competition by achieving a superior rating in the District Festival held recently in El Dorado. They are a well trained group of young singers.

Lile Easterling was a guest at Tuesday's meeting, and Mrs. W.H. Peterson, Jr., the accompanist for the upcoming 29th Annual Kiwanis Show, attended

Candidates Beat Deadline

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A total of 342 candidates filed for state, legislative, judicial and prosecuting attorney positions before the filing deadline of noon Tuesday.

The figure includes 12 Republicans for the Senate and 28 GOP candidates for the House.

In 1970, when Republicans made one of their major campaign efforts, they fielded 43 candidates for the House and 11 for the Senate in the primary.

Among those filing Tuesday was Sen. Jim Caldwell, 35, of Rogers, the only Republican in the state Senate. He seeks reelection in District 6.

Charles V. Adams, 53, of Caneyville filed as a Republican for state representative in District 11.

Robert P. Lewis, 53, of England filed as a Democrat for representative.

George Moore, 56, of Rogers filed as a Republican for representative in District 7.

John E. Ward, 52, of Horatio filed as a Democrat for representative in District 21.

Joseph A. McGraw, 38, of Little Rock filed as Democrat for representative for Position 2 in District 3.

Harold Flowers, 60, of Pine Bluff filed as a Democrat for representative in District 54.

Curtis F. Hartsfield, 29, of Pine Bluff filed as a Democrat for representative in District 54.

Jerri Pruden, 50, a Hope housewife, filed as a Republican for representative in District 20.

Fullbright Gives Papers

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright's public papers have been donated to the library at the University of Arkansas here, and will become a part of the library's growing special collections section.

At Washington, the Arkansas Democrat said that the decision to give the papers to the university had been made several years ago, but the initial shipment of 148 file boxes of correspondence from the period of 1943 until 1960 was received only recently.

Late Filings Enliven Several State Races

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The 11th-hour entry of state Sen. Q. Byrum Hurst enlivened the governor's race Tuesday as Arkansas geared for the two-month countdown to the May 30 primaries.

The ticket closed at noon Tuesday with a five-man Democratic race for governor, a Senate campaign that offers veteran Democratic incumbent John L. McClellan his sternest test since 1954 and a wide open duel for Congress in the 4th District of South Arkansas.

Democratic Congressman Wilbur L. Mills, who also is running for president, and Bill Alexander drew no primary or Republican opposition. But three Democrats seek the party nomination to oppose the state's lone Republican congressman, John Paul Hammerschmidt, who is running for a fourth term.

State Treasurer Nancy Hall and Auditor Jimmie "Red" Jones, both Democrats, did not attract Democratic or GOP opponents. They are alone among the state's seven constitutional officers with no opposition.

Hurst, 53, a senator for 22 years whose most publicized legislative fights have been for the legalization of mixed drinks and casino gambling in his home town of Hot Springs, filed shortly before the deadline Tuesday.

He became the fourth Democrat opposing Gov. Dale Bumpers' renomination for a second two-year term.

The other Democrats who oppose Bumpers, 46, are state Rep. George W. Davis, 53, of Horatio, hospital administrator Mack Harbor, 34, of Paragould and Lester Gibbs, 65, of North Little Rock, a former state tax collector who is now retired.

The only Republican candidate is former state Welfare Commissioner Len E. Blaylock of Nimrod.

Hurst entered the race with a blast at Bumpers, saying the governor had "defaulted upon his mandate" of 1970 when he won an overwhelming victory over Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, and had done "none of the things he promised."

"Indecision in this administration is the order of the day," Hurst said. "... One thing we have learned to depend upon from this man ... is not to depend upon him for anything."

Bumpers met newsmen after the ticket closing and said he would wage as vigorous a campaign as he did in 1970 when he whipped seven others in the Democratic primary, and went on to win the governor's chair. Asked if he viewed his opponents as a "formidable" field, Bumpers said he considered any opposition a "serious challenge."

The governor also was asked if he thought gambling would become an issue because of Hurst's candidacy. He said he would not raise the issue, but that he would be as decisively against gambling as he was in the campaign two years ago if the question arose.

Hurst also said Bumpers' administration was unfriendly with no communication with municipal, county and state officials. Bumpers disagreed, saying that he had sought to treat everyone fairly and did not want to slight anyone.

As to the senator's charge that Bumpers was indecisive, the governor said he obviously disagreed and would deal with this accusation during the campaign.

The governor said he would wage a "town-to-town, grass roots type campaign" with less emphasis on television than in his 1970 race. He said television was important to him in 1970 because he was not known at the time.

McClellan, 76, seeking a sixth term in the Senate, faces three Democratic challengers, his most serious test since former Gov. Sid McMath opposed him in 1964.

The senator's opponents this year are Rep. David Pryor, who is giving up his 4th District congressional seat; Ted Boswell, a Bryant lawyer who finished a close third in the 1968 Democratic gubernatorial primary, and Little Rock businessman Foster Johnson.

Waiting in the wings for the general election campaign is Republican Wayne H. Babbitt of North Little Rock, a veterinarian who has resigned as director of the Little Rock office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development to make the race.

No Plans for More Visits to Moon

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. James C. Fletcher, space agency administrator, says there are no plans whatever for Americans to visit the moon again after the two remaining Apollo missions.

Fletcher said this will leave the moon exclusively to Soviet expeditions for at least 10 years.

He said he looks for some headline-making Soviet manned space flight after termination of the U.S. Skylab project, in 1973 or 1974, and would expect a lunar landing of cosmonauts in 1975.

While the Soviet manned-space activity is at a high pitch the U.S. astronaut program will be at a low level, Fletcher said. This might lead to loud complaints, reminiscent of those which accompanied the Soviet achievement of the first satellite launchings in 1957, and the first manned space flights in 1961, said Fletcher, chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Fletcher, as a dinner host to a small group of newsmen Tuesday, was asked what U.S. lunar-research programs are on tap following Apollo 16, to be launched April 16, and Apollo 17 next December.

"After Apollo 17 we have no plans to go to the moon, ever," Fletcher said. "There are studies, of course, but no actual plans."

"We have the three earth-orbital Skylab missions scheduled for next year, and no manned space flights then until the space shuttle in 1978."

"We are ahead until we phase out Apollo," he said. "We'll have a slow period after that, but then with the Shuttle we will be ahead again."

Fletcher said one concern of U.S. space leaders will be that of using the pool of astronauts to good effect.

He said NASA is working on this and one possibility is the operation of earth orbital missions with left-over Apollo command service modules.

Teachers Lose Appeal

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The 8th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis has ruled that the Plum Bayou-Tucker School District at Wright (Jefferson County) did not discriminate against three black school teachers.

Mrs. Lois Thomas, Asive Thomas and Mrs. Lucreasia A. Evans had appealed a June 1971 ruling by U. S. District Court Judge Oren Harris, who dismissed their suits as "without merit."

HELEN HELP US!

—by Helen Bottel—

That Ol' Debbil Money Again!
DEAR HELEN:

My husband and I have been married three months. We both work. For a while he was laid off so I carried all expenses gladly, feeling everything we have or make is "ours," not "his" or "hers."

Now Mel has come up with a family budget that says we pay equally our half of all expenses, and we should open SEPARATE savings accounts! We're supposed to buy our personal items, clothes, gifts, etc. from our own salaries, and not share jointly in anything, just as if we were single.

He sees this as a kind of contest to see who can save the most, and he won't even loosen up for a movie any more—though he enjoys going out.

I was raised to think of money as community property. I'm a good saver, and could probably win this contest, but I don't want to!

He's just wonderful in every other way—loves me very much, helps with the housework, is proud of me and never criticizes. So why this sudden think about finances?—N.C.

DEAR N.:

The best way to show a newly married "financier" he's thinking "fuzzy" is to go along with him until he hollers for mercy. Make a big deal out of his budget—see that every cent (his and hers) is accounted for, save more than he does, and be the happiest penny-pincher in town.

You'll be surprised how fast he discovers community property is the answer, and realizes how lucky he is to have a wise little wife who knows how to manage a joint budget.—H.

DEAR HELEN:
We have a duplex and rent to what I thought was a nice couple. But the wife has a "best girl friend" who is colored!

They've got so they even go out with this Negro girl and her gentleman friend. I might have passed the woman off as a maid or baby-sitter, but when a colored couple and a white couple walk out the front door and get in a car together—well, I can't sleep nights wondering what the neighbors will think.

We my friend Hal and I bought this house together eight months ago and pride ourselves on the way we keep it up. Now—well can't you just imagine how the neighbors are whispering?—

TWO BACHELORS
DEAR BACHELORS TWO:

I certainly can! And if they're not, then gaily swish away those fears, my friend: they aren't as narrow-minded as the boys upstairs.

Sammy Davis Jr. told Archie Bunker he was "the whitest white man he'd ever met." Archie has a rival in you!—H.

DEAR HELEN:
Men often complain to you about their wives becoming nags. I cut this out of a paper about five years ago and it has been used quite frequently by my wife when she feels I need it: (Don't know the name of the author.)

"When a young filly becomes an old nag, maybe it's because the stallion she married has turned into a mule."—STILL KICKING UP HIS HEELS

DEAR SKUH:
Ah so—old columns never die: they just return to the writer, labeled "author unknown."

I was terribly proud of myself when I dreamed up your little gem and printed it (first) some ten years ago. But whaddaya bet something similar (and unknown to me) has been kicking around since before Joe Miller?

Anyway, thanks for sending it along. Nice to know I'm going down in history, even if I don't get a by-line.—H.

Explore Own Country in 1930 Model A Ford

By DAN MULLEN
The Ottawa Herald
For The Associated Press
POMONA, Kan. (AP) — David Daigh is just one of many Americans who have taken to the road to explore their country, but he may be the only one to try it lately in a 1930 Model A Ford.

The 28-year-old Durham, Calif., native set out from his home town Jan. 22. He pulled into Pomona aboard his aged but still shiny vehicle not long ago to visit with his grandparents for a few days before continuing on for Washington, D.C.

"I knew all the time I wanted to do this," he said. "And each payday in the Navy I put a little back."

The car, he related, makes it easy to strike up friendships along the way. "It's great fun," he said. "You always have a conversation piece wherever you go. Everybody likes old cars and they're always very friendly."

"There's a lot of rubbernecking, especially when people see the tags on the car," Daigh reported he found the Model A 12 years ago in an old chicken coop. It had 94,000 miles on it then he's but on another 80,000 or so since, but he's inclined to think it's good for plenty more.

After he reaches Washington—probably about the end of this month—he plans to turn around and set out for Billings, Mont., to pickup a Navy buddy before heading for Canada and eventually New England.

On his modest budget, Daigh is camping out most nights. He carries his camping gear in an appropriately ancient trailer which the Model A pulls along with a minimum of complaint.

"I've pulled that trailer up hills at 17 miles an hour in second gear sometimes," he says with a laugh.

The car's rebuilt four-cylinder engine is good for about 15 miles per gallon of gas, Daigh says, but speed is something of a problem and occasionally traffic may get snarled behind him.

"I don't like to have to follow somebody who is poking along myself," he observes, "so I pull over and let them by if cars start backing up behind me."

Mechanically, he has had few difficulties. He makes a point of picking up spare parts whether he can find them in case something does go wrong.

When the conversation turned to a current automobile advertisement in praise of a car that "gets back to basics," Daigh smiled again and said, "You talk about getting back to basics, this is it."

Radiation From China Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission says mainland China's nuclear test blast March 18 caused radioactive fallout across most of the United States, but the increase in radioactivity didn't present a significant health hazard.

"The fallout apparently reached a peak concentration during the last 10 days of March," the AEC said in a statement Monday, "and at most locations it has already decayed to levels which cannot be detected by the sampling network."

The explosion in the atmosphere, estimated by the AEC to be the equivalent of 20,000 to 200,000 tons of TNT, caused higher than normal radiation levels in the United States but only a small fraction of the amount received annually from natural causes, the commission said.

'Mr. Clutch' Erupts to Give Lakers Sweep in the Playoff

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
They don't call Jerry West "Mr. Clutch" for nothing. West was held scoreless in the first half Tuesday night—and the Chicago Bulls took a 50-46 halftime lead over the Lakers.

West erupted for 23 points in the second half—and Los Angeles came on to beat the Bulls 108-97 and sweep their National Basketball Association Western Conference semifinal playoff series, four games to none.

The Lakers now advance to the Western Conference finals, where they'll meet the winner of the Golden State-Milwaukee semifinal.

Milwaukee took a 3-1 lead in that series by beating the Warriors 106-99 Tuesday night. The Bucks will try to wrap it up at home Thursday night.

In Eastern Conference semifinal series, Baltimore took a 2-1 lead by edging the New York Knicks 104-103 behind Archie Clark's 35 points, while Pete Maravich tossed in 36 points to power Atlanta past Boston 112-110, tying that series 2-2.

West did not score any points in the first half, but did commit three personal fouls. So Coach Bill Sharman decided to sit his star backcourtman down after 14 minutes of first half action.

"We had some words, Jerry never wants to leave a game," Sharman later explained. "But he had three personals and I didn't want him stuck with four or five in the last half, when the going could have been rougher than it was."

West's first basket came at 7:40 of the third quarter and put the Lakers ahead 60-59. The Lakers led 77-75 after three periods, then outscored Chicago 31-22 in the fourth quarter. West had six of his baskets in that final period.

West's backcourt mate, Gail Goodrich, led all scorers with 27 points and Jim McMillian equalled West's 23 points for the Lakers. Center Cliff Ray topped Chicago with 20 points and 17 rebounds.

Los Angeles center Wilt Chamberlain, who scored only eight points, hauled in a whopping 31 rebounds for the Lakers.

The Bucks got only 26 points for their two best-known stars, Kareem Abdul Jabbar and Oscar Robertson, but their "other people" came through in big fashion.

Forward Bob Dandridge led the Bucks in scoring with 31 points, and reserves Wally Jones and John Block came off the bench to score three baskets apiece as Milwaukee outscored the Warriors 16-4 at the start of the second quarter. Milwaukee held only a 33-32 lead before that spurt.

Jabbar was held to 15 points but did come through with 20 rebounds, while Robertson had 11 points and the same number of assists.

Jim Barnett tossed in 29 points and Nate Thurmond, the veteran center who reportedly received a $2 million offer to jump to the Carolina Cougars of the ABA, added 26.

Forward John Tresvant blocked a shot by ex-Bullet

Earl Monroe with 26 seconds to play and recovered the loose ball to preserve Baltimore's victory. Monroe scored 28 points against his former teammates.

Baltimore Coach Gene Shue pointed to the play of center Wes Unseld as a key to the victory. Unseld sank nine of 11 field goal attempts in scoring 19 points, and also had 12 rebounds and nine assists.

The game was close all the way. Baltimore held a 102-101 lead with 2:06 to go when Monroe missed a breakaway layup. Clark sank two free throws for a 104-101 lead. Monroe hit a jumper to cut it to 104-103 with 1:27 to go, but neither team could score after that.

Atlanta scored the last six points of the second quarter, then outscored Boston 14-1 at the start of the third period to turn a 54-46 deficit into a 66-56 lead. The Celtics managed to tie the score three times late in the game, but were never again in front.

Boston guard Jo Jo White led his team with 32 points, but Celtics Coach Tom Heinsohn had one question following the game:

"How in the world," he asked, "can Pete Maravich go to the free throw line 20 times and Jo Jo White not a single time?"

Atlanta Coach Richie Guerin, however, was looking ahead.

"We're up," he said, "but not any more than Boston is. We know we have to win one game at Boston if we expect to win the series."

Baseball Owners Turn Down Player Proposal

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Terming the demand for a 17 per cent hike in pension benefits "totally unreasonable," baseball's 24 major league teams posted "No Game Today" signs at their ballparks and tossed the ball back to their striking players on what was to have been opening day of the 1972 season.

After an emergency five-hour meeting at which all of the clubs were represented, John Gaherin, negotiator for the owners, reported that the teams had reaffirmed the position of their Player Relations Committee, which had earlier turned down the players' proposal to end the strike.

"There was no sentiment to accept the players' proposal," said Gaherin, looking grim and worn. "The whole matter of a 17 per cent raise in pension benefits is vitally unreasonable, even in the light of the players' cost of living argument, which is not applicable in pension plan negotiations."

The players had offered to return to work on Monday, accepting the owners' original $490,000 boost for their health care package provided they could use the surplus in their $45 million fund for pension improvements. That proposal was rejected as "an imprudent approach" by the Player Relations Committee and that rejection was unanimously endorsed by the 24 clubs in Tuesday night's meeting.

"We are calling on the players' association in the interest of the public and the game of baseball to have the players rejoin their clubs so that the season may commence as soon as practicable," said Gaherin.

"It would certainly be an advantage to all concerned to get the season started," said Gaherin. "There's no reason why this matter can't be dealt with that way."

Gaherin said he would attempt to resume negotiations with Marvin Miller, executive director of the players' association, today. "I'll call him in the morning, if I can find him," Gaherin said.

Miller was in Cincinnati Tuesday night to meet with Reds players. Earlier Tuesday, the Cincinnati club officially postponed today's game against Houston which was to open the 1972 season.

Gaherin said he had no new proposal to bring to the players.

"We will wait until we hear something reasonable within the realm of possibility," the owners' representative said. "There is nothing requiring that you make proposals," Gaherin said. "We'll wait and listen for one."

Gaherin indicated that the owners might accept some increase in pension benefits, but that the 17 per cent demanded by the players was too high. "That's not the kind of thing you negotiate in a news conference," he said.

Nets Take Colonels

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The New York Nets have picked a fine time to start beating the Colonels at Kentucky.

After losing all five games on the Colonels' home court during the regular season, the Nets won their second straight playoff game at Kentucky Tuesday night, defeating the Colonels 105-90.

Kentucky, which set an American Basketball Association record by winning 68 regular season games, now will have to battle to avoid elimination from the playoffs in the East Division semifinals.

"I didn't think we'd be two down at home," said a disappointed Kentucky Coach Joe Mullaney.

"It doesn't look good for us," he continued. "We're two down, and now we have to face them twice at their place (the new Nassau Coliseum). And you know they're going to play like tigers."

Nets Coach Lou Carnesecca, however, was not taking anything for granted.

"We've got to win the next one," he declared. "That's the big one for us."

In other ABA East Division semifinal series, Julius Erving tied a league playoff record by pouring in 53 points to lead the Virginia Squires to a 118-113 decision over the Floridians. Virginia now leads that series 3-0.

In a West Division semifinal, Freddie Lewis hit a driving lay-up with 45 seconds remaining to lift Indiana past Denver 122-120 in overtime and give the Pacers a 2-1 edge in the series.

Utah and Dallas, idle Tuesday night, resume their series Wednesday night in Dallas. Utah leads 2-0.

The Nets moved ahead of Kentucky 16-15 with 3:23 to play in the first period and were never again headed. They outscored the Colonels 16-2 in the last 5 1/2 minutes of the first half to take a 32-34 halftime lead and Kentucky never came closer than 10 points in the second half.

HOPE (ARK.) STAR, Printed by Offset

Hope Star SPORTS Hang Onto Your Tickets

CINCINNATI (AP) — Hold onto your tickets, opening day has been postponed because of an economic storm.

Cincinnati, a charter National League team, has always been privileged to open the season early, but the Major League Baseball Players Association strike continues.

In Chicago Tuesday night the owners vetoed a compromise proposal for the second time.

The Reds Tuesday said their opener against the Houston Astros had been postponed. About 51,000 ticketholders were told to hang onto them until an announcement about another opener after the strike ends.

"Opening game" is a traditional occasion in Cincinnati and has been a boon to downtown Cincinnati since construction of the new Riverfront Stadium.

The stadium had been readied for the opener when the Reds front office told the workers to go home, there would be no game.

Signs in bars and restaurant windows came down. The signs welcomed the baseball season and hungry fans downtown for the day.

Economically, the cancellation caused many problems, particularly with restaurants.

The Netherland-Hilton Hotel, which was preparing an annual, 250-plate baseball luncheon for one group, received a cancellation and is now stuck with the food.

Many industries traditionally invite their out-of-town customers in for the day as a public relations ploy.

"I've got 1,500 people coming in here," said an executive at a local foundry. "Normally we show them around the plant, give them lunch and take them down to the ball park."

"Now what am I going to do with them? I guess I'll just have to give them some drinks and let it go at that."

The Reds were expected to lose $250,000 in the cancellation.

About a dozen Red players continued to work out on the AstroTurf football field at the University of Cincinnati. It is the same surface used in the stadium.

Littler Is Recovering

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Veteran golfer Gene Littler was recovering today from a two-hour cancer operation which left his professional future in doubt.

He was reported in satisfactory condition.

After having a malignant tumor removed from under his left arm March 15, Littler had all the lymph gland-bearing tissue beneath the arm removed Tuesday to see if the disease had spread.

"The tissue removed at surgery will be analyzed in detail by the laboratory and results of the study should be available by Friday," a spokesman at Mercy Hospital said.

Littler, a 41-year-old former winner of the U.S. Open, said before the operation he did not know how removing the tissues would effect his ability to perform on the professional golf tour, but admitted it could end his 18-year career.

The hospital spokesman said it wasn't yet known how long Littler would have to remain in the hospital.

Rupp Is Not Bitter

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Adolph Rupp says he's not bitter because the University of Kentucky turned him out to pasture after 42 years as head basketball coach. But the 70-year-old "man in the brown suit" says he's considering an offer that would put him back on the court.

In a telephone interview from his home in Lexington, Ky., Rupp told the Orlando Sentinel that he had received an offer to coach a basketball team, but Rupp wouldn't say which team that was.

"I've got some business interests around Lexington, and of course, I'd have to be allowed to keep them running—have the time to give them some attention," Rupp said. "I'd also like a say in the hiring of the help."

Rupp said that if the problems could be ironed out, "Yes, I'm considering taking them up on their offer."

On March 27, the University of Kentucky athletic board voted to retire Rupp involuntarily because he had reached the mandatory retirement age of 70.

Rupp had compiled a string of 879 victories and 190 defeats, took his team to NCAA championships four times and won one National Invitational Championship.

Rupp said he had several job offers, including broadcasting positions offered by radio and television stations and an offer from "someone who wanted me to write a syndicated column, and things like that."

He said it would take a "tremendous offer" to get him to leave Lexington, and added the coaching job he was considering was "one tremendous offer."

Masters Play Will Start Thursday

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The signpost of recent history—if that can be accepted as a guide—points to a mild longshot as the winner of the Masters Golf Tournament.

Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Gary Player, Billy Casper, Arnold Palmer, Tony Jacklin. Those are the names that leap to mind when the favorite's role in this storied old championship is mentioned. Play begins Thursday.

But four of the last five winners have come from the ranks.

All have had a variety of things in common. All four—Gay Brewer, Bob Goalby, George Archer and Charles Coody—have been solidly established competitors, toughened and tested in the grinding demands of the American pro tour. All were mild longshots. And, prior to their Masters triumph, none had ever before won a major championship.

If that holds true again, then history would indicate that players such as Tom Weiskopf, Bert Yancey, Bob Murphy, Australian Bruce Crampton, Tommy Aaron, Frank Beard or Dave Hill might be logical candidates to shrug into the famed green jacket that goes to the winner of this classic.

They fit the category. All are solid, long-established professional competitors. None has won a major title, though all are proven winners on the pro tour.

Weiskopf, tall, talented and newly possessed of a steady maturity, may be the No. 1 man in the group.

"I think I've finally grown up a little," the handsome Weiskopf said earlier this year when he won the Jackie Gleason Inverrary Classic. He pulled down $52,000 in that triumph, the richest event on the tour this year and his third title in less than two years.

The hard-hitting 29-year-old long has been noted as the man with one of the finest swings on the tour. But a towering temper had delayed his debut as a full-fledged star.

He also has a history of playing the Augusta National Course, site of the 72-hole tournament that begins Thursday, extremely well. He's finished as high as second, was sixth a couple of years ago and shares with Palmer and Nicklaus the record for consecutive sub-par rounds here, seven.

Yancey, the six-time tour winner, admits to an obsession with this tournament. He has a mock-up layout of the course in his home and dutifully makes the changes on his model as changes are made on the course.

He, too, plays the course extremely well. In the last five years he has finished third twice and fourth once, the latter just two strokes off the winning pace.

Murphy and Crampton are non-winners this season. Crampton, a 10-time tour winner now in his 16th year on the American circuit, has finished seventh or better six times this season.

"I could have won any of them, but something always got in the way," the pleasant, curly-haired guy said.

It's been much the same story with the red-headed Murphy, a former national amateur champ and a three-time winner. In a string of nine tournaments earlier this year he finished ninth or better seven times and could have won six of them. A three-putt green on the first extra hole cost him a playoff against Grier Jones for the Hawaiian Open title.

Miller Blamed for the Strike

CINCINNATI (AP) — Marvin Miller, executive director of the striking Major League Baseball Players Association left for Baltimore today after branding Cincinnati Red General Manager Bob Howsam "a liar."

Howsam had charged earlier in the day that without Miller there "would be no players' strike and that baseball would be better off without him."

"Mr. Howsam is a liar," said Miller. "I appreciate the compliment, but it isn't true. I could go to Timbuctoo and it wouldn't make any difference. He assumes this is a one-man organization."

"But these are not the same players as there were in the game 20 years ago. Howsam and some of the other owners and general managers are living as it was 20 years ago. The players today are more concerned, more sophisticated, more educated. They are aware how much money there is in this game, despite the owners' cry of poverty."

"This is ridiculous and absurd. Fortunately not all of management is this way."

Howsam was not immediately available for comment. He was at an owners meeting in Chicago.

Miller said he was convinced the owners are not interested in reaching a settlement even though it will cost them money if the strike continues. He said he believes they are more interested in "breaking the back of the players' association."

Miller met with 12 Cincinnati

Reds players. The Reds had been scheduled to meet the Houston Astros today in their season opener.

Miller maintained the money is already in the pension plan to fund the players demand for a 17 per cent increase in benefits. He said the money belongs to the players but the owners must agree to release this fund and they won't do it.

"All we're saying is the money in the plan has the capability of paying the increased health and pension benefits," he said.

"We have put our money where our mouth is," he said, noting that it was "strange" that the owners did not accept the contention that there was $800,000 available in the fund.

"The plan employs an actuarial firm, Retirement Plans Inc., Cleveland. They have been doing this job for 17 years and were hired by John Galbreath, an owner. In the past 17 years no one has challenged its figures. Now we ask them to use these figures and they won't accept them."

"The solution is for the owners to stop the nonsense of trying to break the association and to sit down and negotiate. If they did we'd have a settlement within an hour... no, within 15 minutes."

Ex-Baseball Player Dies

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Alvin Floyd Crowder, who played in three World Series during his years as a major league baseball pitcher, is dead at the age of 73. He was a native of Winston-Salem.

Crowder became ill at his home Monday night and was pronounced dead at a hospital. He had suffered a heart attack some years ago. A graveside service was set for 11 a.m. today at Forsyth Memorial Park in Winston-Salem.

Crowder went to the majors in 1926 when he joined the Washington club. In his years of major league pitching, he worked in 403 games, compiling a record of 167 victories and 115 losses. He retired in 1936 and returned to Winston-Salem where he was associated with the Winston-Salem Twins baseball team during the late 1930s and early 1940s.

He pitched for the Washington Senators, the Detroit Tigers and the St. Louis Cardinals.

Babe Ruth League Players, Coaches

The Hope Baseball League announces the Babe Ruth League teams, coaches, and players for 1972. The local league, with five Hope teams and one Blevins team, will begin league play around the first of May. The games will be played each Monday, Thursday, and Friday evening beginning at 6:30 p.m. at Legion Field. Try-outs were held Friday, March 24, with the draft taking place the following day. All boys who registered and tried out were placed on teams. Any boy between the ages of 13 and 15 still interested in playing Babe Ruth Baseball should contact Paul Henley, Hope Parks and Recreation Director.

Lions to Hear a U of A Professor

The Director of the Graduate Institute of Technology of the University of Arkansas will appear before the Hope Lions Club on April 17. Dr. Frederickson will have the program for that date and will present to the Lions some of the activities of the institution.

Frederickson received his Ph.D. from the University of Utah in 1949. He entered the University of Utah after being discharged as a Lt. Col., Field Artillery in 1945.

After receiving his Ph.D., Dr. Frederickson was Professor and Head of the Department of Metallurgy at Penn State. In 1952 he joined Dow Chemical Company as a research director. He spent 17 years with Dow and in 1969 chose to re-enter the academic life. He joined the University of Arkansas as Director of its Graduate Institute of Technology in July, 1969. He has been Director and Professor of Metallurgy there ever since.

Dr. Frederickson said "I chose

Arkansas because I believed, and still do, that the State of Arkansas is on the threshold of great advancement—economically, politically and academically." Dr. Frederickson and his wife live in North Little Rock. They are the parents of three children, all of whom are grown.

Juniors Take Track Meet

Hope Track teams took on Stamps, Gurdon, and Emerson yesterday and the local Juniors posted a lopsided victory by winning all but two events, the 800 and 1200 yard hurdles.

Larry Johnson was the outstanding member of the team posing first in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, took second in the broad jump and ran all the relays.

Stamps edged the Hope Senior boys who have been idle for two weeks. Melvin Weston turned in his best time of the year to win the 100 in 10.1. Jimmy Smith and Bud Martin were one-two in the broad jump and the 440 yard relay team, David Johnson, Melvin Weston, Riley Williams, and Ray Wheelington, turned in a 45 flat, Coach Jake Honea reported.

Recalls 130,000 Vegas

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors is recalling approximately 130,000 1972-model Chevrolet Vegas to correct a carburetor defect which consumer advocate Ralph Nader charges could cause the subcompact car to burst into flames.

In a statement issued in Detroit late Tuesday, GM said the defect had been found only in cars with the optional 90-horsepower engine. GM said it had developed a method to correct the problem.

Required parts for the recall are scheduled to be in the hands of dealers during the latter part of the month, GM said.

The automaker's announcement coincided with release in Washington of Nader's letter to the National Highway Traffic Safety Association detailing the charges. Nader said they were based on "numerous" reports he has received of fires in Vegas.

GM said preparations for the recall were under way before it learned of Nader's letter. The Vegas are being recalled at company expense and make up about 40 per cent of the 1972 model year production, GM said.

Nader said the fires start because of the design of the carburetor. He said the top cover of the carburetor is so insecurely fastened it easily works loose, permitting so much air to get into the fuel mixture that the engine backfires, blowing out the exhaust system.

A fuel line is near where the exhaust system blows out, and the fire can result, Nader said.

Nader charged GM was trying to conceal the problem from Vega owners by carrying out "an illegal silent recall campaign" through dealerships to repair the defect—a charge GM said it "categorically denies."

Nader also charged the NHTSA with "dragging its feet" in investigations of engine fires in some 1965-67 GM cars and 1969-71 Ford LTDs.

Harrisburg Seven Jury Reports Some Progress

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The Harrisburg Seven jury has reported progress in efforts to reach a verdict in the kidnap-bomb-conspiracy trial of anti-war priest Philip Berrigan and six other persons and it is continuing deliberations today.

Lawyers for the defendants continued to plead unsuccessfully for discharge of the jury, now in its seventh day of deliberations, insisting any decision reached would be "forced ... coercive ... gross injustice."

"At this stage of the game a no verdict is much more just than a verdict," said defense lawyer Paul O'Dwyer.

Another member of the defense team, William Cunningham, claimed "this jury has deliberated longer than any other in federal court history"—and said that, too, was prejudicial.

Between last Thursday and Tuesday the jury had worked more than 52 hours.

A Justice Department spokesman said there aren't any records on the lengths of jury deliberations, and some lawyers reported there have been juries that had considered a case for more than a week.

Optimism rose for some kind of final decision on the nine unresolved counts in the 10-count indictment, or at least some of them, after U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman interrupted the jury's deliberations Tuesday afternoon.

The jury on Sunday had reported it was deadlocked on the count charging the seven peace activists conspired to kidnap presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger, blow up tunnels that carry heat to federal buildings in Washington and vandalize draft board offices around the country.

It was unanimous on one count, convicting Berrigan of smuggling a letter out of the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa.

"I told you Sunday if you felt you couldn't agree, if you were hopelessly deadlocked the court would have no choice but to discharge the jury," Herman said when he brought the nine women and three men back Tuesday. "I want to reiterate that again."

"Can you tell me if you have made any progress?"

"In the past two hours there has been progress made," responded jury foreman Harold C. Sheets, a tax accountant.

"Do you think there could be more progress made if you were to continue?" the judge asked.

"That's right," Sheets replied.

Chaplin Chokes Up

By HENRIETTA LEITH Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Charlie Chaplin, back from 20 years of exile from the country that made him a multimillionaire and a legend, choked up as he told a full house of more than 2,800 Chaplin lovers at Philharmonic Hall: "I'm home again."

The 82-year-old Chaplin, plump, white-haired and slow moving, gave off an aura of sheer delight Tuesday night.

He waved and blew kisses from a box high above an applauding and cheering crowd after a $100-a-seat showing of two of the Little Tramp's immortal silent films, "The High Life" and "The Kid."

The speech was brief, hesitant, British-accented. But to an adoring audience which had just watched an hour and a half of pantomime by the man credited with turning movies into an art form, it was enough that Chaplin was actually speaking.

"First," he said, "thank you for your wonderful applause and affection. It's so very gratifying to know that I have so many friends. I'd like to say much more."

Famous Newsmen Dies

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Hodding Carter Jr., the Pulitzer prize-winning newspaper publisher and author whose editorials demanded racial justice decades before the civil rights movement gathered steam, is dead at 65.

Carter, owner of The Daily Delta Democrat Times, died here Tuesday of a heart attack. Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

"He will be recorded well in American history," said Mississippi's newly elected governor, Bill Waller. "He was an individual who wrote as he felt and whose journalistic abilities caused national attention to be focused on Mississippi."

Carter won the Pulitzer in 1946 for a series of editorials dealing with racial moderation. His feelings perhaps were best summed up in a 1963 editorial in which he denounced Bolivar County officials for dismissing charges against a justice of the peace who had killed a Negro.

"Neither God nor lawful man discriminates between races when the taking of life or the breaking of the lesser laws of mankind are involved. Think on that, you people who profess to be Christian or democratic or fair. Until we in Mississippi look upon law and crime without relation to the color or faith or nationality of the principals, we have no right to lift our heads and ask for equal treatment in the concert of states or the community of nations."

When the Mississippi House voted 89 to 19 to censure Carter, he wrote that "those 89 character mobbers can go to hell, collectively or singly, and wait there until I back down. They needn't plan on returning."

Carter was born in Hammond, La., in 1907 and was graduated from Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Maine, in 1927. He did graduate work at Columbia University.

In 1932 he founded The Daily Courier in Hammond and then in 1936 moved to Greenville and founded The Delta Star, acquiring The Delta Democrat Times two years later.

During World War II he was editor of the Middle East edition of Stars and Stripes and was discharged with rank of major.

Over the years, Carter wrote more than a dozen fiction and history books and received several honorary degrees.

He was a member of the Pulitzer Prize Advisory Board from 1961-61.

Survivors include the widow, Betty Werlein Carter, and two sons, Hodding Carter III, managing editor of the Greenville newspaper, and Phillip Carter of Atlanta.

McGovern Tried to Tell People

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Political Writer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — For nearly 15 months, Sen. George McGovern has been telling people his political game plan would work and send him into the front rank of Democratic presidential candidates. Few believed him until today.

McGovern made them believers with a sweeping victory in the Wisconsin presidential primary Tuesday, installing himself as a formidable contender in the contests ahead.

The South Dakota senator has a long way to go, but so does everybody else in the race. And he has come a long way in a campaign he declared on Jan. 17, 1971.

His rating in the national public opinion polls has been low; he said he would change that in the primaries. The politicians called him a nice guy who wouldn't win; he said he could and would prove it. They said he was too far left for the taste of the Democratic establishment; McGovern set out to show that he was viable, acceptable—and that the establishment doesn't count that much any more.

As Gary Hart, McGovern's national campaign director described it, the political plan was based on the premise that there are two wings in the Democratic party and that in the end, there would be two prime presidential contenders.

"Our goal has always been to occupy one of those wings, and then shoot it out with whoever occupied the other wing in the last two or three primaries," Hart said.

The Wisconsin win was a major step in that effort, but there will have to be more in primaries ahead.

For if Wisconsin proved that McGovern can be a winner, it also showed that the impact of one Tuesday's outcome may not be persuasive on the next Tuesday or the one after that.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, an also-ran in Wisconsin, came to the state with the lift of a victory in adjacent Illinois where he captured 60 convention delegates and left McGovern only 13.

It did him no good Tuesday, and after a battering that was almost as bad as that he suffered in Florida on March 14, the one-time frontrunner was put in the position of denying that he might quit the race.

Muskie said he expected to find "more favorable ground" in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania on April 25.

McGovern will be his chief contestant in Massachusetts, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota in Pennsylvania.

Linebacker Darrell Haas and defensive back Charlie Richardson of the Air Force football team were teammates at King High in Corpus Christi, Tex.

Bangladesh Recognition to Bring Economic Benefits

By SPENCER DAVIS Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recognition by the United States is expected to bring important economic benefits to Bangladesh but it leaves several diplomatic questions unresolved.

U.S. recognition, announced Tuesday, will open the way for Bangladesh to become a member of the World Bank and International Monetary fund, where the United States has an important voice.

Administration and banking officials alike say this could mean important economic gains for the new country.

But the U.S. action is not likely to bring any quick reconciliation between the United States and India, according to American and Indian diplomats here, and it will not curb a potential Chinese veto when Bangladesh applies for United Nations membership.

Nor, according to the State Department, has recognition brought a U.S. decision on Pakistan's request for arms to replace losses suffered in the December war with India.

The war resulted in creation of Bangladesh in what had been East Pakistan.

Indian diplomatic sources in Washington have described U.S. recognition as long overdue and say it might have generated more goodwill in New Delhi had it come much earlier.

They also say that the Shanghai communique signed by President Nixon and Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, which called attention to the Indian alliance with the Soviet Union, aroused suspicion that Peking and Washington

"made a deal behind our backs."

American officials predict it is going to be some time before the United States and India can sort out their disagreements.

One problem that remains is the delicate question of repatriation of war prisoners to Pakistan. The United States has disapproved of India's making recognition of Bangladesh by Pakistan a condition for the repatriation.

"The United States has no desire to perpetuate the estrangement which has characterized relations over the past year," a State Department official said. "We doubt that the Indians have any such desire either. We do talk, but it is not yet on fundamental problems. We have begun by setting the stage and the recognition of Bangladesh has helped to do that."

Insulation value of STYROFOAM vs. urethanes?

NO CONTEST!

3/4" of STYROFOAM SM provides 35% more insulation value than 1/2" of laminated urethanes.

3/4" of STYROFOAM* SM and plastic foam insulation is all that's usually required to effectively . . . and permanently . . . insulate poultry houses. (And just think of the insulating job 1" of STYROFOAM will do!) STYROFOAM SM is rigid board insulation, goes up easily and quickly. And it's available. Right now . . . whenever you need it . . . because it's produced right here in Arkansas.

And price? That's where STYROFOAM SM really pulls away from competition. STYROFOAM SM costs up to 25% less than laminated urethanes.

There are a lot of other reasons why it's no contest. STYROFOAM SM gives you a house with improved environmental control of your chicks, reduced heating costs, lower mortality, higher production. It does it all for a low initial cost and remarkably easy installation. STYROFOAM SM has proven its ability to deliver in chicken houses all over the country. And right here in Arkansas, thousands of chicken growers have found that the high performance of STYROFOAM SM helps reduce operating costs and increase profits.

So when you're thinking about insulation for your chicken houses, take a look at how STYROFOAM SM stacks up . . . performance-wise and price-wise . . . against any other insulating material. It's just no contest.

THOMAS F. "TOM" McLARTY

Pedestrian Is Killed

TRUMANN, Ark. (AP) — Frederick Holt, 11, of Trumann was killed Tuesday when struck by a car while crossing U.S. 73 near the Craighead-Poinsett county line.

Authorities said the boy was struck by a car driven by William Arnold, 25, of Madison, Wis.

Friday, March 31, was a red-letter day for Thomas F. "Tom" McLarty, co-owner of Hope Auto Company.

A company-wide anniversary celebration was held to honor "Mr. Tom" on his 50th year at Hope Auto with the presentation of a 50-year Dealership Plaque from Ford Motor Company and a huge cake sent to him by McLarty Ford of Texarkana.

The inscription on the cake reads, "Congratulations Mr. Tom" 50 Years of Friendly Service with Dependability and Loyalty.

Following the ceremony, the staff and management of Hope Auto enjoyed refreshments of cake and coffee.

$149 From Lilly Sales

Nineteen volunteers representing Junior members of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 12 were on the streets of Hope Saturday, April 1 selling Easter lilies to help raise funds for the crippled children of Arkansas at the Easter Seal Center in Little Rock.

Karen Allen acted as chairman of the group and Mary Browning served as her helper and $149.67 was collected from the sale.

The three leading salesladies were Julie Flowers, Donna Griffin and Julie Graves with a total of $30.76. The two runners-up were Jodi Duncan and Raelaine Jordan with a total of $24.14.

Others in the group included Judy Clark, Sonya Johnson, Cathy Smith, Judy May, Shari Bryan, Jamie Duncan, Christi Kellam, Dana Flowers, Kim Hairr, Terri Tippitt and Tamara Cornelius.

Mrs. Joe Jones, Easter Seal chairman, said, "I would like to thank the girls who worked, the public that contributed financially, and the Hope Star and KXAR for publicizing the Easter Lily Sale. Together they made the sale a success."

Some Question on Who Pays to Remove Highway Signs

By BOB JONES Associated Press Writer

Billboard laws were passed in this year's legislative sessions in several states, including Texas, but there is some difference of opinion on who will pay to have the signs removed from near the roads.

Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma laws provide that the federal government pay 75 per cent of the cost of removal and the state 25 per cent.

However, an Iowa attorney general's opinion holds it is unconstitutional to use primary highway funds for the purpose and in Missouri there is no formula for compensation.

In Texas, legislation regulating placement and removal of billboards was one of the two major reasons Gov. Preston Smith called the state legislature into a special session, which ended last week.

The bill adopted by the Texas legislature prohibits certain types of outdoor advertising, such as billboards, within 660 feet of primary highways and requires junkyards, or automobile graveyards, with 1,000 feet of main highways to be removed or screened.

The Texas highway department considers interstate, U.S. and major Texas-numbered highways as part of the primary system. It does not include farm to market, ranch or park roads.

Excluded from the billboard control are official signs authorized by law, for sale or lease signs on property, signs on businesses or signs on any commercial or industrial land. Public utility signs also are exempt.

The highway commission is authorized to pay the sign owner and land owner for removing a sign.

The state highway department has estimated it will take $82.2 million over the next five years or so to remove or screen the 1,166 junkyards which will be affected by the bill and to remove 16,380 billboards, with the state paying an estimated $26.6 million of that total from state taxes.

Opponents claim the Missouri law also is unconstitutional because it calls for use of highway funds to tear down billboards and compensate owners. Supporters and opponents alike said the cost of dismantling the signs cannot be estimated because of the lack of a formula.

Missouri Gov. Warren E. Hearnes signed the bill into law March 30, a day before the deadline set by John A. Volpe, secretary of transportation. Volpe threatened to withhold $11.5 million in federal aid this year and 10 per cent of federal highway aid each year until the state passed a law to meet federal requirements.

Gov. Robert Ray signed the Iowa bill March 29 to avoid loss of $7.2 million in federal funds this year and an estimated $6.6 million annually until such a law was enacted.

Joseph Coupal, director of highways, said that, based on a 1966 survey, billboard-junkyard removal would cost Iowa $26 million but a new survey has been ordered to update that estimate.

Kansas Gov. Robert Docking signed the bill into law to avert loss of $6.8 million in federal funds. Opponents said that amount should have been sacrificed because loss of billboards will lose more tourist business than that.

In June 1966, Kansas had more than 35,000 signs to be removed—957 on interstate routes and 34,812 on primary routes. The state highway department said it still is using those figures as estimates.

It was estimated in 1966 that removal would cost $13.11 million. The Kansas Legislature has given the highway department authority to use any money it needs to match federal funds.

The Oklahoma Legislature adopted the law because it estimated about $5 million would have been lost in federal funds. The state will pay the estimated $1 million cost for removal then will get three-fourths back from the federal government.

Gov. J. J. Exon signed the Nebraska measure a few days before the deadline. The state faced loss of $3.9 million in federal funds. Under the bill, 75 per cent of the removal cost will be paid by federal funds.

Total cost has been estimated at $14.1 million but Nebraska officials said the task, that will begin this summer, will be spread out over the space of several years.

Padgett Quits at Berkeley

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Jim Padgett has resigned as University of California basketball coach and says he is "actively seeking another position in athletics."

Padgett, who announced his resignation from Honolulu Tuesday, didn't say where he's job-hunting.

But, after four frustrating seasons in the shadow of UCLA's basketball dominance, it would be a good bet he won't wind up as a head coach elsewhere in the Pacific-8.

Padgett, 41, had a four-season record of 52-52 at Cal after moving up from assistant coach to succeed Rene Herreras, who left after a protest by black players.

War Power Debate Starts

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today begins consideration of amendments to a bill that would limit the power of a president to make war.

In prepared Senate speeches, Sens. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., the Senate majority whip, and Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., joined in support of the measure to require prior approval of Congress for most use of the armed forces.

The bill would permit the President to commit U.S. troops for 30 days only to repel attack on U.S. territory and armed forces, to forestall threat of attack, and to rescue Americans in danger abroad.

The bill is "needed to prevent the involvement of our country in future Vietnams," Byrd said in asserting that Congress has the sole constitutional authority to initiate war, declared or undeclared.

The measure, said Percy, will "serve to save presidents from undertaking military adventures contrary to the wishes of the American people." Leading the opposition, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., told the Senate Tuesday the bill is "unrealistic, unwise and unconstitutional."

"It makes no sense from the standpoint of safe or intelligent military planning," Goldwater said. "It is disruptive of our entire mutual security system which now safeguards world order ... And it invalidly prohibits the president in the exercise of his constitutional powers of national defense."

Pending amendments include two by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

A supporter of the bill in the committee's unanimous vote bringing it to the Senate floor. Fulbright said he thinks it goes too far in that some provisions "could be construed as sanctioning a preemptive, or first strike, attack solely on the president's own judgment."

Fulbright proposes that the bill simply authorize the president "to respond to any act or situation" for 30 days if it endangers the United States or its citizens. He would bar the use of nuclear weapons except in reacting to a nuclear attack.

Another Fulbright amendment would delete the exemption of current hostilities, lest it imply congressional sanction for the constitutionality of the Vietnam war.

Death Takes Powell

By TAD BARTIMUS Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell, the flamboyant former congressman who swept through life with beautiful women on his arm, a sermon on his lips and an adoring Harlem at his feet, has died after a long illness. He was 63.

His death at Jackson Memorial Hospital Tuesday night was attributed to complications stemming from an earlier prostate operation.

He had been confined to the hospital's intensive care unit since he was airlifted by the U.S. Coast Guard from his Bimini, Bahamas retreat March 7.

The first black elected to Congress from the East, Powell also became the first congressman in modern times excluded by a vote of the House.

He was turned out in 1967 for misusing funds and defying the courts, some 22 years after he was first sent to Washington.

Powell was re-elected in a special election one month later by his New York constituents who packed his 10,000-member Abyssinian Baptist church on Sundays hearing him admonish, "Keep the faith, baby."

However, he did not try to reclaim his seat.

In 1968, without making a single campaign appearance in Harlem, Powell was re-elected again, by a 7-1 majority—the same margin by which the Supreme Court ruled the following June that Congress had exceeded its constitutional power in barring him.

But he got neither the $55,000 in back pay nor restoration of the seniority that made him chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee.

Following a bout with cancer in 1969, Powell announced he would run again. But he was narrowly defeated in a six-man Democratic primary by Charles Rangel.

Before Congress kept him out, Powell was attacked for his absenteeism, his junketing, for being delinquent in income taxes, for keeping his estranged wife on his payroll for $20,000 without duties and for his growing identification with the Black Power movement.

The grandson of a slave, Powell was born Nov. 29, 1908 in New Haven, Conn., the son of a Baptist preacher who preceded him as spiritual leader of Abyssinian's flock.

When Powell was airlifted from his Bahamian retreat, Darlene Expose, a woman he had introduced to newsmen as his wife, accompanied him.

During the final days of his life, his third wife Yvette, from whom he had been estranged since 1965, engaged Darlene in a court fight in Miami over Powell's body and estate.

He had been divorced twice before

South let West hold the first spade as a matter of good practice. He had to lose a spade trick some time or other and might as well lose it right away.

He won the second spade lead in dummy and then asked himself the question, "How can I make this hand?"

He could count eight tricks in aces and kings. The best chance for his ninth was the jack of clubs and at first glance a club finesse seemed indicated.

A second look told him that if West held the club queen he would still be sure of three club tricks by playing the king, then the ace and finally leading toward the jack and that this play would guard against the chance that East held just queen and one club.

South played the king and

Heart Attack Can Strike Suddenly

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—My husband passed away suddenly from a heart attack at the age of 40. The autopsy statement said "coronary occlusion." My husband was always a very active, healthy man. No weight problem ever. I can't recall ever seeing him short of breath or give any indication of chest pain or symptoms. I keep wondering why there wouldn't be some indication of brewing trouble, such as high blood pressure. He always passed his medical examinations in top condition. I am wondering now what symptoms he may have had that we never noticed or that didn't show up on any of his medical examinations.

Dear Reader—It is always a terrible shock for the family when a young, healthy man dies suddenly from a heart attack. This happens to a number of men younger than your husband. Frequently, these individuals have had no evidence of illness by the usual medical examinations. Like your husband, many of them might not be overweight and usually they have been relatively active people.

All too often, the first sign of heart disease is a sudden heart attack or death. This is why so many doctors make such a big effort to get people to do the things they can do to prevent heart disease, even though they may think they are healthy. It is too late if the first evidence is sudden death. Fatty deposits in the arteries to the heart do not affect the blood pressure or the usual X rays or the heart sounds we hear. X rays, with dye injected into the arteries to the heart muscle itself, can sometimes identify the disease. This procedure isn't justified in healthy looking people such as your husband was, because the procedure is difficult and not totally without danger.

The various blood tests, body weight, and factors like smoking identify individuals who are in a higher-risk category but even this doesn't give us the ability to say what is going to happen to one individual.

I have included your letter in the column in part to remind people that this is a frequent story in heart disease. Our most common medical problem in the industrialized nations is one out of four deaths in the United States is from heart attacks. Now is the time to stop smoking, restrict or eliminate alcohol, exercise, and eat and adjust your diet with ace and sure enough the queen dropped.

South was sure of his contract and now decided to try for more. He led out the ace and king of diamonds and continued the suit after ev-everyone followed. His contract was still safe.

East took his jack of diamonds and without a moment's hesitation proceeded to cash the queen. Then he led a heart.

West wasn't at all happy about this turn of events. He discarded a heart on the fourth diamond but when South, who had discarded hearts from both hands on the last diamond, proceeded to cash a second heart, West was squeezed out of either a club or a spade and South had picked up an overtrick.

Mitchell Sparks Is a SCORE Counselor

The Small Business Administration makes loans to small businesses. This is not all that it does. SBA also supplies needed management assistance and counseling to small businesses. An all-volunteer group known simply as "SCORE" plays a very important role in supplying such help. SCORE stands for the first letters of Service Corps of Retired Executives. The name itself is very appropriate because the members of this volunteer group score success after success day after day. SCORE counselors come from the ranks of retired people. Generally, they have been highly successful in their own business. They are fairly well off financially. They are searching for something worthwhile to do... and they are motivated toward helping others.

After the SBA borrower-client gets into business, he often encounters problems that he does not know how to cope with. A little advice and assistance at this point by someone who has previously experienced the very same difficulty can be of untold benefit and actually head off serious future trouble. When the servicing officers of SBA encounter such situations, they try to match up a need with the proper expertise of a SCORE counselor. The members of SCORE can boast of success stories almost daily. The most amazing aspect to SCORE assistance is that the SCORE counselors have only self-satisfaction to gain by their unselfish efforts. Such a SCORE counselor is William Mitchell Sparks of Hope.

For 10 years prior to his retirement Mr. Sparks was a loan officer with the SBA - so he is well known in the business and banking community throughout the state. During his work with SBA Mr. Sparks had the opportunity to observe firsthand operations of almost all types of businesses within the state and to advise business owners on their financial and operating problems.

Before coming to SBA Mr. Sparks worked for a number of years for the Farmers Home Administration in both county and state offices.

Mr. Sparks is a graduate of State College, Conway, and for several years was a teacher in the schools of Arkansas. He did graduate work at Texas A & M and graduated from the Law School of La Salle University.

Mitch Sparks and his wife, Winnie, returned to their home at Hope when he retired from the government in 1969. Almost immediately he found that he couldn't stay retired and has been busy with legal work much of the time since 1969.

Mitch is a member of the Arkansas Bar Association, the Southwest Arkansas Bar Association and the Kiwanis Club.

Any business owner - or prospective business man - may receive help from SCORE by contacting the Small Business Administration, Room 377 Post Office and Court House Building, Little Rock.

Figures Have Way of Rearranging Selves

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Like the bits of colored glass in a kaleidoscope, figures have a way of rearranging themselves into brand-new patterns. Ask anyone who charts stock market performance.

Consider mutual funds. Based on objective, funds usually are grouped as growth, growth & income, balance, or income, ranging in risk from high to low.

Low risk funds, such as those in the income category, are generally thought to have the least prospect for substantial appreciation. They are conservative; they seek steady dividends rather than price appreciation.

At the other end of the classification, growth funds are assumed to grow fastest of all. Greater risks are taken, of course, but in the long run it is widely believed that a good growth fund will outperform others.

Figures just released by the Arthur Lipper Corp. now subject such assumptions to some doubt. Measured over a five-year period to March 30, the different fund categories showed these percentage gains:

Growth	37.65
Growth & Income	37.35
Balanced	34.42
Income	38.39

The biggest percentage gain was by the supposedly slow-moving income funds, not by the growth group, although there were hardly any significant differences among the four.

But before making another assumption—that this test is conclusive—consider that these averages are made up of performance extremes, of the good and bad. Nothing as deceptive as an average; you cannot buy it.

In the growth category, for example, greater risks are taken in order to enhance the potential for big capital gains. Sometimes, in fact, outright gambles are taken. Sometimes they pay off; often they do not.

While the growth average was only 37.65, gains of the 10 best growth funds ranged from 123 to 244. Growth funds simply can't make those kind of gains without violating their investment philosophy.

Moreover, significant performance differences for each category are contained within that five-year period. In general, growth funds have more pronounced up-downs than the others, and often look good for short periods.

For the first quarter of 1972, for example, growth funds show gains of 11.07 per cent, compared with 5.94 for growth & income, 4.23 for balanced funds and 2.97 for income funds.
